Organizing ÉSIS alumni – Save the date!
One of our School’s strategic goals for this academic year is to establish an alumni group as a distinct professional community also with an ongoing formal association with ÉSIS.

Together with Anushka Samarawickrama (MIS 2016), we have booked a date and location. All ÉSIS alumni are invited to this initial organizing event, that will be part-social, part-business, to see what interest and energy is out there. RSVP to mary.cavanagh@uottawa.ca

Thursday, November 3rd 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at Impact HUB Ottawa 71 Bank St., 6th floor. Light snacks.

We now have +120 graduates on record – an impressive number, but more impressive are the graduates themselves, many now with several years of professional experience.

Évaluation périodique des programmes d’études supérieure – 9 et 10 novembre

Le protocole institutionnel d’assurance de la qualité (PIAQ) de l’Université d’Ottawa veut que les programmes d’études supérieures soient évalués tous les sept ans en vue du maintien de programmes répondant aux normes de qualité les plus élevées.

ÉSIS is scheduled for its cyclical program evaluation this fall and will be welcoming external evaluators, Professor Louise Spiteri (Dalhousie University) and Professor Vincent Larivière (University of Montreal) on November 9th and 10th. We will be sending out an invitation for your participation (between noon and 2:00 p.m. on November 9th) shortly. If you can spare the time, your perspectives are essential to our ongoing assessment and progress.

Congratulations to our own University Librarian!

Dr. Jada Watson (MIS, PhD)
“Towards a Data-Driven Understanding of Country Music’s ‘Geo-Cultural’ Origins”

Since the 1950s, country music has conventionally (and stereotypically) been defined through a “southern thesis” that the genre emerged from the countryside and mountain hollows of the rural U.S. south. Recent studies contested this relationship, demonstrating the role that northern states and urban centres have played in shaping the genre’s sound and image. But the geo-origins of the genre’s artists are often overlooked in this discussion. Drawing on methods of data-based research in the humanities, this project will use data about the artists retrieved from the Billboard country songs chart (1944-2015) to discover long-term geographic trends in the genre and contribute to this ongoing discussion in country music studies.
